

Modeling assignment

Mengfan Cheng
04/13/2015

The model is about the relationship between congressmen's speeches and their ideologies. We are trying to parse and analyze the ngrams of congressmen's speeches to see the top 100 bigrams and trigrams for both Republicans and Democrats. Also, a model is to be built approaching the relationship between words and ideology. Here are the exact steps:

Steps:

- 1) Download the data of the most recent Congress via Sunlight Foundation API (credits to Dr. Gaurav Sood <https://gist.github.com/soodoku/85d79275c5880f67b4cf>)
- 2) Clean the speeches in the downloaded dataset: remove stop words, stem the words, remove special characters, numbers, capitalization etc (credits to Dr. Gaurav Sood <https://github.com/soodoku/Text-as-Data>)
- 3) Download ideology data from voteview.com (DW-Nominate, 1st dimension)
- 4) Merge the two datasets by ID#
- 5) Produce a list of all possible 'bigrams' and 'trigrams' in the data.
- 6) Produce a list of the top 100 bigrams and trigrams for both Republicans and Democrats
- 7) Build a ridge model about the relationship between people's words and their ideology.

Results:

- 1) Top 500 bigrams and trigrams as listed in the Appendix Top Bigrams and Top Trigrams
- 2) Top 100 bigrams and trigrams for both Republicans and Democrats as listed in Appendix Top Bigrams of Republicans, Top Trigrams of Republicans, Top Bigrams of Democrats and Top Trigrams of Democrats.
- 3) Ridge Model:
As is shown in the last part of R script, top bigrams are checked in each person's speech to see whether they have involved certain topic in their speeches. Based on this, a ridge model is created where the dependent variable is the ideology score and the independent variables are whether people's speeches include the top 500 bigrams. And cross-validation is adopted to tune the model. In cross validation, it is found that the best $\lambda = 0.04307892$. To further expand the model, top 500 trigrams and other n-grams may also be adopted.
